

Conditions of Enrolment for Class Students

PLEASE READ CAREFULLY

Please note that in order to study at the Faculty, you must be aged 18 years or over. There is no upper age limit.

The Faculty reserves the right to cancel a class if it attracts an insufficient number of students.

Structure and Timing

The Foundation Course is designed in three modules, each of which is taught over one term of classes (classes are either once a week for ten weeks or a series of four seminars, scheduled at weekends). The Foundation Course can thus take one year to complete if you attend each term or you can take longer, spreading the modules out over two or more years.

The Diploma Course is designed in six modules, each of which is taught over one term of classes (as a series of four seminars, scheduled at weekends).

The Diploma Course can thus take you two years to complete. However, students may take longer than this choosing to take a break in between modules to take time to absorb the material, deepen their understanding and practise working on charts. And tutors may suggest that a student take a break between levels or modules to develop and practise.

Taking your time

Studying astrology can evoke changes in how we see life and experience the world and in our lives and for this reason it is important that students take their time with their studies and view study as a journey rather than a destination. There are times where there is greater studying activity and other times of greater reflection or adjustment, both of which are of immense value. It is important that students take responsibility for managing themselves through this process.

Books

The Reading List for each module suggests background reading for your course and we would strongly encourage you to do as much additional reading around each subject as time allows, since you will benefit from being able to draw on a wide range of material.

There are a few set text books which you will need to buy for some of the modules, as follows:

- Raphael's Ephemeris (essential set text for Foundation Course Modules 2 and 3).
- An Ephemeris for both the 20th and 21st centuries (essential reference texts throughout the Diploma Course).
- The Combination of Stellar Influences by Reinhold Ebertin (essential set text for Module 7).
- Mundane Astrology by Michael Baigent, Nicholas Campion & Charles Harvey (essential set text for Module 8).

Please Note: You are advised to make sure you buy a copy of the set text for your module before you enrol. Details of specialist astrological outlets for online ordering and worldwide delivery are listed on the 'Essential Books for Purchase' document which you will find on the 'Enrolments' page of the website at www.astrology.org.uk (under 'Study with us').

Course Material

Each module is accompanied by written course material which summarises the subjects learnt at each stage, in the form of a series of articles. In addition, you will find a Student Manual and a series of exercises – these have been designed for students following the course by Distance Learning, but your tutor may use some of them as the basis for homework exercises during the course.

Working on Your Own Chart

Throughout the Certificate and Diploma classes, you will often be required to work on your own birth chart. Partly this is for practical reasons – whenever you learn a new technique or idea, the process of applying it to your own chart can help you engage with the technique or idea more fully. As every student soon discovers, astrology comes alive when you really see it working in your own chart.

But there are also more subtle processes at work. Firstly, as you progress through the modules, you will become increasingly aware of the potential power of astrology as a tool for understanding the character and experiences of another human being – and you will also become increasingly aware that whenever you look at another person's chart, you inevitably see it through the lens of your own personality. Much like the principle in quantum physics which suggests that the act of observation can change the outcome of an experiment, the personality of the astrologer is crucial to the energy and nature of a chart reading, whether this is a simple exercise on a sample chart in the Foundation Course material or the readings you may eventually give to clients as a professional astrologer. Astrological training therefore brings with it the need to develop an awareness of our own personal biases or predispositions, so that we can more effectively bracket these out when we read someone else's chart.

Secondly, astrology encourages a participative process that strengthens as we deepen our relationship with the symbols, eventually bringing us to a deeper understanding of ourselves, of life in general and of our relationship to the cosmos.

The Faculty therefore places a lot of emphasis on the idea that learning astrology is a multi-layered process of growing awareness and personal development, with the work you do on your own chart being central to this process.

If you do not know the exact time of your birth, it is still possible for us to provide you with a birth chart if you know the time to within a few hours – some parts of the chart will be speculative, but as you gain more experience of astrology it should be possible (with the help of your tutor) to narrow this down until you arrive at a chart which feels like a close fit. Alternatively, you can pay a professional astrologer to have your birth chart 'rectified', a skilled process of matching significant dates and events to astrological signifiers in order to arrive at a suggested time of birth – if you wish to do this, you will find a list of Faculty-trained astrologers who do rectification work on our website at www.astrology.org.uk

If you do not know your birth time, you should indicate this on the enrolment form, so that your tutor is aware of it.

Additional Homework

During the course of the module, your tutor may set some short homework exercises in addition to the exercise or presentation work that you must do to gain your 20 credits. Such additional homework is entirely optional and you are not obliged to complete it in order to gain the module credits. It will either be marked by your tutor or will be in the form of self-study or specific preparation or reading for the following class.

Your Tutor

Your tutor's aim is to ensure that you have a rewarding and individually-supported learning experience. He/she will support you throughout each module, suggest extra reading, provide specific examples and generally ensure that you have all the guidance and feedback you need to successfully complete each module.

Each module at Diploma level is typically taught by two tutors, who work closely together in their preparation for the seminars. You will therefore experience a variety of tutors during the Diploma Course, allowing you to broaden your understanding and encouraging you to develop your own astrological methodology.

Working towards the Certificate & Diploma

The Faculty's courses and exams allow you to accumulate credits as you work through your studies. You will automatically receive 20 credits when you complete each module, whether studied at Classes, by Distance Learning or at Summer School. In addition to the module credits, you will receive 60 credits when you pass each of the interpretation exams – Certificate, Intermediate and Advanced – making a total of 360 credits required to obtain the Diploma qualification, as follows:

Foundation Course leading to the Certificate

Module 1	20 credits	120 credits
Module 2	20 credits
Module 3	20 credits
Certificate Interpretation Exam	60 credits

Diploma Level One

Module 4 Module 4 [Module 4a: Transits Module 4b: Solar Returns]	20 credits [15 credits 5 credits]	120 credits

Additional Optional Module: The Astrology of the Family

An additional optional half-module is also available – The Astrology of the Family. It attracts 10 credits towards the Diploma and may be taken instead of one or two of the optional subjects (part-modules) included within Modules 7 and 8 above.

The Astrology of the Family	10 credits

Attendance at Seminars

In order to gain the credits, you are required to attend a minimum of 75% of the seminars which make up each module, i.e. a minimum of 3 of the 4 days for classes scheduled at weekends and a minimum of 8 of the 10 evenings for the Monday evening Foundation Course.

You will also be required to complete a short home study exercise or to present a piece of chart work in class. At the end of the module, if you have fulfilled these requirements, you will be awarded 20 credits, but you must complete the credit-associated exercise within six weeks of the final class in order to gain your credits. N.B. Diploma students on Modules 4, 5, 7 and 8, where there are two or three separate subject areas taught by more than one tutor, will need to hand in their credits homework exercise to the relevant tutor 6 weeks after the class in question. The tutor/s will advise you of the date by which the homework needs to be completed.

Module credits will expire after 6 years unless you validate them by passing the relevant exam at that level. In other words, if you have obtained all Foundation Course module credits, you will need to pass the Certificate Interpretation Exam within six years of completing Module Three in order to validate these credits. The same system of validation applies to Levels One and Two of the Diploma course.

For details of the credits system and gaining the Faculty's Diploma, go to the Examinations page under 'Study with us' at www.astrology.org.uk and download the 'Exam Rules & Regulations' document

No Pressure!

There is no pressure on you to take any of the examinations. Whether or not you intend to take the examinations with a view to becoming a qualified astrologer, our nine modules provide a structured and comprehensive astrological education in themselves. The exam process however is a valuable learning process in itself which some students can benefit from significantly.

English as a Second Language

Students will need a good standard of reading, writing and speaking English to be able to take the course. If you are unsure of this you can check your language on the following university access website: <http://www.open.ac.uk/courses/do-it/english-skills>. If you need to develop your language skills we advise that you take an English language course first.

As a general guide, your English language skills should be equivalent to one of the following qualifications:

G.C.S.E. English Language Grades A- C
 IELTS Levels 5.5-6.5
 TEOFL 87-109
 Cambridge First Certificate in English

Protecting your Confidentiality

Your tutor will respect your privacy at all times, and any work you submit will be treated as strictly confidential between yourself and your tutor. The only exception to this rule is when the Head Tutor occasionally requests examples of the tutor's work for purposes of monitoring tuition standards. In such cases, any communication between yourself and your tutor will be kept confidential by the Head Tutor.

Furthermore, Faculty tutors are under an obligation to keep all tuition records and material in a safe place, and all such material will be destroyed one year after each module has been completed.

Enrolling on Module 9

Students who attend Module 9 are required to conduct a 'live' chart consultation with a client and submit a recording of the consultation to their tutor for feedback. Conducting a reading with a client requires a secure knowledge of forecasting and synastry techniques, as well as a sensitive and empathetic approach to chart work. For this reason, Module 9 is only open to students who have completed Modules 1-7.

Right to Cease Tuition

In the unlikely event that the Faculty considers it not to be in the best interest of a student or the school to continue to provide tuition to a student we will arrange with the student to end the ongoing provision of tuition.
